

C.K. Scott M.A. (Oxon)
Solicitor

28 Oak Village
London NW5 4QN

Tel. 01 267 8304
01 482 1730

Our ref:

Your ref:

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I write both as a Master of Arts with Honors of Oxford University and as a Practising Solicitor of the Supreme Court of England, to testify as to my experience of the religious teachings of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh.

As a Master of Philosophy and Political Science and as a former student of some of the "best" minds of the twentieth century, I feel qualified to testify to the immense genius of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh, a genius that consists not only in the depth of his insight and understanding but also in his ability to communicate these insights and understandings with the utmost clarity and in simple language, thus making the benefits thereof generally available to a wide cross-section of humanity.

As a practising lawyer I can attest as to the great benefits I have become aware of in my professional as well as my private life that have flowed as a direct result of the teachings of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh. These teachings have enabled me to arrive at a greater degree of understanding of my role as a professional dealing with people's problems and of the people themselves and has enabled me to bring a greater degree of compassion to my work - a fact that has been commented on by my clients.

Further than this, however, application of the teachings of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh to my daily life has resulted in a great improvement in the "quality" of my work and my attitude to it. I am more relaxed and enjoy my work more whilst actually increasing my work-rate and the accuracy and efficiency of my work - all of which I have no doubt in attributing to the effect upon me of the teachings of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh.

Yours faithfully

Christopher Kirk Scott MA (Hons)
Solicitor of the Supreme Court of England