TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I am a dental surgeon with orthodontics as a specialty. I qualified in 1965 as a Bachelor in Dental Surgery at the University of Durham. I then studied at the Royal College of Physicians, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, gaining the Primary Fellowship in Dental Surgery. A further 2 years of study led to the Diploma in Dental Orthopaedics from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, Glasgow, Scotland. Since then I have been in mixed dental and orthodontic practice in both England and Scotland.

I first came in contact with the religious teachings of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh in 1978 through friends and reading his books and listening to his tapes. I met him during 1980 at Poona India where I was on short holiday.

I consider this man to be not only a religious teacher of the highest order but one of the most unique individuals in this day and age. His insights into man's psychological make-up and his understanding of people and their problems are unsurpassed. His teachings and his books have been a constant inspiration to me and have deeply affected both my personal life and my dental practice. Since coming in contact with his teachings my dental practice has become happier and more relaxed and my interaction with patients has improved immensely.

Yours faithfully

M Parsons.
