Re: Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh

I am a psychiatric nursing supervisor working in chemical dependency. I have 8 years experience in this field. I attended nursing school as a scholarship student and graduated with honors. I have a degree in psychology from California State University, Fullerton. I am a certified alcoholism counselor and am a member in good standing of the California Association of Alcoholism Counselors and the National Association of Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Counselors. I have done research on sleep disturbances in alcohol and drug abuse and regularly lecture on this subject.

The contribution that Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh has made by increasing our understanding of the psychodynamics of the chemically dependent person is well respected by myself and many of my peers. His insights as a master of current psychologic theory equal or exceed those of the past masters in psychology.

Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh has made significant contributions in the area of chemical dependency and is certainly a notable personage.

Respectfully,
