To whom it may concern;

About Baghwan Shree Rajneesh

My autobiography:
name Sietze Broekema; born 21 mei 1938;
secondary school; Two years in the army (I left
as a second lieutenant)
afterwards I started my training as an architect, finished in '69, certificate of Akademie voor Bouwkunst, Amsterdam.
Then I started together with my wife with the upbuilding of my own practise.
In '79 the office had 23 fellow workers. I sought the office and started as a scientific worker in Technische Hogeschool, Delft, teaching architecture
continuing up to now.

After my studies I worked very hard a couple of years, in the upbuilding of my own practise, when I had done it the question arose: will I continue the rest of my life collecting money and prestige?

I started looking around for alternatives;
more healthy life and food, yoga, meditation
etc. etc.

Then a day I heard first about Baghwan Shree Rajneesh. A friend told me about him.

I read some books, listen to a tape of one of his discourses and I was very impressed. I decided to go to Poona (India) to listen to him personal, that was in '79. He hit me bang on the target? I felt so much love for people in all his words and everything he said was very important for me love for him arose in my heart.

He shows us the way to a new way of life, a new kind of human being, up to me it's an alternative for humanity to survival?

He is a man of exceptional abilities.

Around me I see growing the influence of his vision, large groups of people are interested, I see more and more people feeling he gives a real alternative.
