To whom it may concern.

For me, Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh is the most unique and exceptional and inspiring person that I have ever known, and His qualities are manifested in everything He does, whether He be giving a discourse, driving by in His car, or sitting silently in Satsang. For me, His presence is the essential thing, and it is this presence that keeps reminding me of what is - of what meditation is, of what love is, of what this existence is.

His words were beautiful, but as He said at the time, not the essential part - this is hidden between the lines, or in the silence between the words. He is teaching us to listen to the silence and to live our lives in tune with the silence of existence. One only has to look at the Commune that has developed here in His presence, to see how much is possible with such an inspiration. It seems to me that what is happening here is what people in different ways all over the world are trying to achieve - a loving community working together in peace and harmony.

His blessings,

Anala
