To Whom It May Concern .

I am a teacher with the Commonwealth Government Department of Education and am currently having a book, a science programme for secondary school migrant students, published by Heinemann Publishing Co. I became an "Orange person" a disciple of the religious teacher, Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh, in April 1982. Since he has been in silence the entire time I have known him, my knowledge of Bhagwan's teachings has come through his prolific writings and recorded cassettes.

Bhagwan's silence in no way detracts from his exceptional capacity as a spiritual leader. On the contrary, silence being synonymous with meditation, one of his main teachings, silence serves to enhance his message. I recommend Bhagwan as an outstanding religious teacher, whose influence be enabled to continue to grow.

Yours sincerely,
