

Trish K. Chaitin
Kapoor, et al., Jr.
9/17/91

To Whom it May Concern,

Primarily in my professional life I have worked with people. For seven years as a Gymnastic and Dance Coach in several states; both in public schools and private Gymnastic Academies. Now I am a cocktail waitress where I work closely with many people at a very fast pace.

I am writing to express the powerfull affect Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh is having on my life.

In teaching my efforts were directed to produce good Gymnasts. It quickly became apparent to me that ~~I~~ I had to find a way to touch and invite something other than their bodies or their minds in order to bring out Gymnastics and Dance that was "exceptional." I know that place that was other than mind or body through my own gymnastics. Some how it felt religious to me. I was working with their bodies and their patterns of thinking ie: fears and doubts, to move beyond them.

(2)

Watching this process both in my students and myself I became aware of the mountains of conditioning we had to learn to move past and simply become the gymnastics. I struggled with administrators etc for years over the issue of being too personal with the children. That may "job" was to teach gymnastics and nothing further than that.

After meeting Bhagwan I began to have a greater understanding about the limits of our conditioning and how we can move beyond to celebrate life.

I am now working at Yuba the Buddha Rajneesh nightclub. We work very long at a fast pace, yet somehow I feel an abundance of energy. I feel the presence of Bhagwan in the others working there. I don't get exhausted or frustrated working with the customers. Living and working with Bhagwan is inspiring me continually to move beyond my own conditioning, and to move out of a struggling life into a life of celebrating all aspects of my life. There is a quality in everyone I work with of love and support. My sense of humor is growing every day. I'm enjoying my life, my family feels it too. They really know what Rayneeshism is by their experiences of me becoming a happier person. I am Enjoying!

(3)

Sincerely

Nissim N. Carpenter