To Whom It May Concern:

I am a translator/editor, of no outstanding standing in the world. But editing Bhagwan's words has been my pride and joy. Being in His presence and working with His words is like being in a real university--as though my being has been educated, drawn out. Through Him, the real possibilities of life have become available to me and I have experienced myself growing and blooming in the art of life and love through His grace, His presence, His words, His silence.

Bhagwan is incomparably unique in all the world, and this Buddha-field, the City called Rajneeshpuram, is an oasis in the desert of the world. It thrives on its love, life and laughter, which are the context for the work and everything that happens here. By comparison, the world of other cities and their competition and ambition and violence and coldness and separation is like a fate worse than death.

And it is through Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh and His exceptional ability that this oasis has bloomed. Who else has transformed so many people? has brought so much light and light and celebration into the world? What greater accomplishment could any artist or scientist strive for?

Yours sincerely,

Ma Yoga Anurag
